A CLUB OF PROGRESS.

LAYING A CORNERSTONE FOR A NEW HOUSE.

A SUMMARY OF THEIR PROSPEROUS HISTORY-THE HAPPY MEMBERS CELEBRATE THE

DAY WITH A DINNER. The members of the Progress Club now feel that their new club house, Fifth-ave, and Sixty-third-st., is well under way, for the cornerstene was placed in position yesterday. The foundation was laid some time ago, and the walls are now a little above the street level, but it was not considered that the building was begun until the cornerstone was laid. At 3:20 o'clock a party of the members left the present cinb house and, with President Simon Goldenberg and Vice-President Jacob H. Loewenstine in the van, marched up Fifth ave. to Sixty-third-st., where a large number of ladies and gentlemen were waiting for the receivement to begin. Lyman G. Bloomingdale, chair-man of the Building Committee, made a few remarks as he handed to President Goldenberg the silver trowel and mailet made especially for the occasion.

Mr. Goldenberg's speech was in a happy vein. He spoke of the Progress Club in the past and predicted for it a brilliant future. Its name told the tale of its success. The number of times it had been forced to seek more commodious quariers was sufficient tes-timony of the club's progress. "When, on October 18, 1864," he said, "eight young men, strangers in this country, formed a little circle for the cultivation of a generous social feeling, they had no conception of the important position the club thus formed would nitimately occupy. They had not ever a name, but in one week's time their number had swelled to twenty and they named their club the Progress Club. Then they met at No. 33 Third-ave. But in a short time the rooms were too small, and they moved to larger ones in Fourteenth-st. As their membership increased, they have success-ively occupied four club houses since then. Five years ago we built at a cost of $125,000 our present fine club house at Nos. 110 and 112 East Fifty-ninth st. But even that house is now too small for our needs. The membership of our club is now 346. So a year ago this beautiful site was purchased, and the club house which will be erected here will be as fine as any in the city, and a lasting monument to the progressiveness of the Progress Club, for we do not expect to find it necessary to make another change." He then spread the mortar and the huge block of rough Believille gray rock was placed in position. On its face is chiselled the date "Nov. 28, 1888." The metal box which was placed in the cavity contains transcripts of the club's records, coins, newspapers etc. There were present at the ceremony Isaac Stiebel, Jacob Rothschild, Charles Wise, Leon Mandel, Theodore Harris, Iwaac T. Myers, S. W. Mayer, Herman Ramitzer, M. Lachenbuch, M. B. Beckman, Jacob H. Fliesch, Otto Horwitz and William H. Stiner.

The plot of ground owned by the club is 100x100 feet, and the building will occupy all except a strip eight feet wide on the east side, this being left for light and air. A prize of $2,500 was offered for the Columbia College, the judge, selected that of Alfred Zucker & Co. The building will be five stories high, with cellar and basement. With the three principal tes mezzanine floors will alternate at the second and third stories. The feature of the Sixty-third-st. front will be the main entrance, an arched opening eighteen feet wide. After the plan of the Union avenue. The architecture of the exterior will be Italian Renaissance of the style of the fifteenth century. material used in the facades will be fawn-colored brick, terra cotta of a deeper shade and Belleville gray rock. For balcony railings, basement window-guards, etc., ornamental wrought fron will be used. The architects promise that the building will be as ornate and complete as any in Fifth-ave. The cellar will contain bowling alleys, storage rooms, etc. The billiard room, cafe, steward's receiving room and lardors will occupy the basement.

On the Fifth-ave, front of the first story will be drawing rooms, ladies' parlors, libraries, committe ms and small dining rooms. The large dining hall, 88x55 feet and 24 feet high, will be on the second The mezzanine floor immediately above will contain smoking and chess rooms and dressing rooms

HIGH LICENSE NOT DEAD

THE CITIZENS' COMMITTEE WILL CONTINUE TO AGITATE THE QUESTION UNTIL A PROPER LAW CAN BE PASSED.

The "Citizens' Committee on High License" of this city will not abandon its agitation for the passage of a High License law, despite the defeat of Warner Miller upon that issue. A new executive committee has just been appointed to push the adoption of such a law in this State. The committee has the following members: Dorman B. Eaton, chairman; John B. Pine, secretary; the Rev. E. W. Donald, Benjamin F. Watson, Walter Howe, Henry E. Howland, Elihu Root, Ernest H. Crosby, William G. Wilson, Howard Manseld, John Brooks Leavitt, Gustav H. Schwab, Wheeler H. Peckham and E. Ellery Anderson. It will be observed that this committee has a large proportion of Democrats in its membership, which may or may not have the effect of securing for its ne respect from Governor Hill.

John B. Pine, secretary of the new Executive Com-mittee said yesterday: "We have decided not to draw up any high license bill until the Excise Commission submits its report to the Legislature on January 10, and we may not prepare any bill then, for we hope that the Commission will submit a High Licens bill which we can support. The excise laws of the State are in a bad condition, and sadly need amend-ment. By the terms of the law under which they were appointed, the Excise Commission can either offer amendments to the present excise laws or they can submit a law sweeping away alll past excise legislation and bringing in entirely new statutes on the subject. We hope that they will proffer a new law, the present excise laws are so contradictory that no one can understand them. The statute on which most of the excise legislation rests was passed in 1857, and successive amendments have been made to it. Then the amendments have been partially repealed and in such a way no one can tell whether the original act is affected or not.

"It would be better to destroy it all and bring forward, as I have said, a clearly written new law. There are excellent examples of good excise legislation to be discovered in other states. Nebrasks, for instance, has an admirable law. So has Minnesota I hope the Excise Commission will examine all those statutes. If the Excise Commission does not submit a satisfactory law, we shall submit one ourselves."

TO TAKE CARE OF THE NEW PARKS.

Ex-Judge Tappen yesterday called the attention of the Park Board to the character of the buildings on the property which is included in the newly acquired parks in the annexed district. He estimated their value at half a million dollars, and thought that as the department would obtain immediate control of the property, it should at once insure these buildings until some decision had been reached as to their disposal. President Robb said that there would be another hearing on the objections to the award, while those lands in regard to which the report was approved would be formally transferred to the city on Saturday. Mr. Hutchins said that there are a great number of fine as the buildings. It was proposed to appoint a number of keepers to maintain supervision over the property.

A transfer of an unexpected appropriation of $1,000 was directed to be asked of the Board of Estimate to meet these expenses for the remainder of this year and an appropriation for next year will also be

A CONSULTATION AT THE CUSTOM HOUSE. Mr. Maynard, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, yesterday visited the Custom House and held a brief consultation with Collector Magone in regard to the case of Assistant Appraiser Brown, whose conduct in office has been under investigation recently. When Mr. Maynard went to Washington he took with him all the printed testimony in the case. The authorities there will read the testimony.

SURGEON SIMONS'S BODY REMOVED.

in Jersey City, to be sent to Philadelphia for burial. Admiral Gherardi placed the Navy Yard launch at the disposal of George A. Cook, brother-in-law of Surgeon Simons, to remove the body. The two seamen who are still suffering from the fever are deing well. The work of disinfecting the Boston is going on, and she will probably be brought up to the Navy Yard in a few days.

ONLY WASHINGTON CAN GET WARD.

BOSTON HAS NO CHANCE-HE WILL PROBABLY GO TO THE CAPITAL.

Speculation is still lively among the followers of baseball over the proposed transfer of Ward. That the Washington club will ultimately get him now seems assured. If the present arrangements fall through Ward will remain in the local club. No other city except Washington has the least chance of getting him. An offer of $20,000 from Boston would not secure his release. In fact an offer of the same amount from any other club outside of Washington would meet with the same result.

Before starting for Australia Ward had a long talk with the local managers and the situation was mapped out. He demanded his release not so much because he wanted to leave New-York, but because he wanted to practise some of his theories about baseball, and to practise some of his theories about baseball, and he knew he would never have a chance to do it in this city again. His short trial as captain of the nine two years ago made it impossible for him ever to assume control of the men again. He was not on friendly terms with some of the players, is not now, and probably never will be. In either the Washington or Boston clubs Ward would have full control of the nine and that is just what he wants. The Boston club might have secured Ward some time ago, but the team could not get him now no matter how much money was offered for his release. John B. Day, president of the local club, was seen in his Maiden lane office yesterday and at last consented to untangle the Ward mystery.

"Ward will in all probability play in the Washington club next season," he said, "but that is not definitely settled. If he does not play in Washington he will remain in the New-York team. Ward told me early in the summer that he wanted to go to either the Washington or Boston clubs. I don't think he would care to go to any other city. The Boston people seem to be trying to upset Washington's negotiations for Ward, but they are simply wasting time and ink. Ward will not go to Boston. The only way Ward could be got by Boston would be for the Washington could be got by Boston would be for the Washington club, after it has secured Ward, to sell him to Boston. That will never be done."

A subscription list is being passed around among the followers of baseball. It is proposed to give Captain "Buck" Ewing, of the Giants, a handsome testimonial. Twenty-one subscribers have given $255 already. The list is in the hands of David Graham, of No. 69 East Eighty-sixth-st.

SHOT DEAD BY A BOY.

BARROOM LOAFER KILLED-THE SHOOTING BELIEVED TO BE ACCIDENTAL

Hugh O'Keefe, a lounger in Jeremiah Dwyer's liquor store, at No. 613 Eleventh-ave., was shot lead there yesterday by David Hennessy, Dwyer's nephew, but the testimony of several witnesses seemed to prove that the shooting was accidental. Hennessy is searcely more than a boy in years. His father is night watchman at Eastman's slaughter house, at the foot of West Fifty-ninth-st., and lives at No. 583 Eleventh-ave. According to the youth's own story his father had an extra revolver which he wished to sell, and David put it in his pocket yesterday morning, hoping to sell it to some barkeeper in the When he got to his uncle's liquor store he met O'Keefe and several other men whom he knew. O'Keefe looked at the revolver and tried to take out some of the cartridges. He was handling the weapon in a bungling way, and David said: "Let me take it. I'll get them out." The youth took the weapon and was trying to get the cylinder out to remove the cartridges when there was a reporstruck him in the eye, and had pierced his brain. Hennessy went home, where he was arrested by Policeman Cush, of Captain Kilillea's squad, later. His story was corroborated by his uncle, and by other contain smoking and chess rooms and dressing rooms for hadies. A feature of the club house will be the ball room, which is so necessary for a club whose monthly entertainments are so well-known. This will occupy nearly the whole of the third story, its dimensions being sexu5 feet and 34 feet high. Above the ball-room floor will be the caterer's apartment and servants' rooms. Particular attention will be paid to the halls and stuircase extending from the basement to the hobby before the ball-room. The stairs will be broad, with wide landings at each floor. From the stairs, about 35x60 feet, will be left open, which with the large demi-light will afford light and ventilation. There will be an extra iron stairway on the outside of the building leading to the passageway, so that the building may be quickly cleared in case of necessity. The club house will be brilliantly lighted by gas and electricity. The estimated cost of the building is $500.000, and it is expected to be ready to be occupied by October, 1889.

To celebrate the laying of the cornerstone the club enjoyed a dinner and ball at the present club house last night.

CROOKED WORK AT THE NAVY YARD. The report of Paymaster Allen and Special Examiner Heiskell of the Law Department at Washington shows that there has been a good deal of crooked work at the Navy Yard. It appears that in one case 100 chests of tea were ordered, and that the seller was not only instructed to send eighty chests, but to send a bill for the full amount of the requisition. On the arrival of the eighty chests twenty were added from the storage-room, so that when the inspector arrived he found 100 chests as called for by the requisition. In another case a large amount of blue cloth was stolen from the store-house by one of the bookkeepers, who sold it. Upon the discovery of this fact the bookkeeper, Van Orden, made a trip to Canada. In another instance of wholesale theft the thief was arrested, but soon died. There are three men who have been ar rested and are on ball. Serious rumors have also been allowed to get outside of the commission's records which implicated certain officers, and there is much interest manifes by as to whether they are to be allowed a hearing in their defence.

His departure was unexpected by the great body of the sporting fraternity, only Duncan Cam-eron, W. O'Brien and Dr. Weatherby being cognizant of it.

He said he did not have a friend or relative left in the world. His only property consisted of a bed, some ragged cloth a rusty stove, a few kitchen utensils and the tools with which he made stencil plates. As he lived alone and troubled no one his history was a sealed book to other occupants of the house. Last week he told Mrs. Turner, the housekeeper, that he had not earned enough to pay his way and he wished he could die Yesterday morning he was found dead on the floo beside his bed. He had strangled himself with cord, one end of which was tied to the bed-post. On the wall of his workshop he had tacked a piece of
